Haverford Ave. to be Finished Next Week

Elimination of Kink in Road Causes Delay in Job by County

AIDS UNEMPLOYED MEN

The improvement of Haverford avenue, Narberth, between Essex and Wynnewood avenues, will be completed by the end of next week, according to County Superintendent of Highways Cook.

A delay in the work, which is being done by the County, was encountered this week when it was decided to change the alignment of the road so as to eliminate a kink near the eastern end of the improvement. This will require a little extra excavation, Mr. Cook pointed out, but will add considerably to the appearance of the finished street.

The top dressing of "Specification E" will be applied on Monday. This is the same surface which was applied to the business section of Haverford avenue last year and to Wynnewood avenue.

Several unemployed men from Narberth and vicinity have been given work on the improvement in two shifts, working three days each.

County aid for the improvement of this section of Haverford avenue was granted in May following negotiations by Charles V. Noel, County Committeeman from the Borough, and Robert F. Wood, chairman of the Borough Council's Highway Committee, with the County Commissioners.

It is expected that the project will cost in the neighborhood of $7,000 to $8,000, a small part of which expense is being borne by the Borough.

The paving of this section of Haverford avenue brings to a close the street improvement campaign which was initiated in 1924 by Mr. Wood, who went into Council in 1926 on the strength of this program.

No public streets now remain in Narberth which are not paved with a modern and substantial surface.

Dr. Tily Going Back to School; Enrolls in Music Course This Fall at Penn

Directing head of a great city department store, member of one of the most important committees of the Federal Reserve, director of the P. R. T. Bell Telephone Co., and numerous organizations, Dr. Herbert J. Tily, of Montgomery avenue, Cynwyd, still finds time to devote to his avocation of music.

Proof of this is his enrollment for a course in the Aesthetics of Music at the University of Pennsylvania during the coming school year. The course is four hours a week—exclusive of home work—delving into such matters as the nature of music form and substance, creative processes, musical forms, etc.

Protestant Corporation to Observe 5th Anniversary

The fifth anniversary of the American Protestant Corporation will be celebrated at Fairview House, Fairview road, Penn Valley, this Saturday and Sunday. The activities will begin at 3 P. M. Saturday, with games of horse shoes, quoits and a baseball elimination contest. A supper will be served between 6.00 P. M. and 7.30 P. M. for 35 cents. Miss Martha Turnley, of Harrisburg, will deliver an address at 8.15 P. M., followed by other speakers of prominence. Following the speaking there will be old-time music and other entertainments.

On Sunday church services will be held in building, commencing at 8.15 P. M., in charge of a prominent minister of a Philadelphia congregation.

The officers of the Corporation extend a cordial invitation to all those interested to participate in this anniversary.

Entering Ursinus

Lachman Rinehart, of Bridgeport, captain of the Lower Merion High School football team last fall, will enter Ursinus College in September, it was learned this week. Rinehart, who has been spending the summer in Maine, was center on the Maroon eleven and selected for this position on All-Suburban elevens for two seasons.

Announce Tourney Winners
Winners in the duplicate contract bridge tournament at the Narberth Bridge Club on Monday evening were, N. and S., J. H. Baker and C. E. Hammer; E. and W., N. L. Todd and A. B. Wainwright. Winners on Tuesday afternoon at the tournament of the Women's Division of the club were, N. and S., Mrs. John Wetzell and Mrs. Howard D. Simpson; E. and W., Mrs. Frank X. Purcell and Mrs. W. A. Stoult.

Young's Son Gives Alarm

Damage to the extent of $2500 was done by fire early last Friday morning to the home of William F. Harriety, Jr., Golf View road, Merion Golf Manor. The alarm was given by Charles J. Young, a next-door neighbor, who is the son of Owen D. Young, author of the Young Reparatons Plan. The flames are believed to have started by wiring of an electrical device used to open the garage doors automatically. The fire burned through the garage and the front part of the first floor.

Track Meet Planned at Playground Thurs.

Wayne and Haverford Teams to Engage Narberth Representatives

A triangular track meet will be staged on the Narberth Playground next Thursday afternoon at 2 P. M., with teams representing the Haverford, Wayne and Narberth playgrounds.

The events scheduled will include discus, shot-put, high jump, pole vault, broad jump, 100-yard dash, half-mile run, shuttle relay, and potato race. The age limit will be 19 years.

Narberth will be represented by Baker, Ross, Witte, McGary in the pole vault, Rose in the shot, Lane and McGary in the discus, Matheys and Baker in the high jump, Ross, Matheys and McGary in the broad jump, and Clark Brennen and several Lower Merion boys in the sprints and half-mile.

On Tuesday there will be a track meet for the junior boys under 15 on the playground.

A picked baseball team of Narberth juniors will go to Wayne on Tuesday to meet the Wayne playground junior team.

The finals in the men's singles in the annual tennis tournament will be played tonight. Next Tuesday night there will be an exhibition match between Dr. Fischer and Ed Dumont.

There were 14 entries in the junior boys' tennis tournament, which was won by Jim Snyder, who defeated Bob McAdoo in the finals, 6-2, 6-1.

Participants were: Bob Wilmut, Marshall Evans, Bob McAdoo, Bill Meehan, Bill Wentz, John McKeown, Jack O'Brien, Bob Tyson, Bill Aiken, Bud Phillips, Jim Snyder, Eddie Dixon, John Klum and George Miller.

The Reds won the senior track meet of last week, defeating the Grays, 40½ to 30½. The Reds were captained by Joe Baker, who won the high jump and pole vault. Mike McGary, leader of the Grays, placed in the broad jump, 100-yard dash and shot-put. A combination of these two teams will go into action against Haverford and Wayne.

Preparations are now well under way for a Puppet Show, to be presented by children of the primary group. Committees have been appointed and are busily at work in the Estate of Mrs. Ethel Reed Hartel Left to Daughter

Mrs. Ethel Reed Hartel, 89 Wynnewood avenue, Merion, left an estate valued at $609,562 in trust for her daughter, Miss Ann Elizabeth Hartel, who is to receive the income for life and one-tenth of the principal, if needed.

The will, probated at Norristown this week, directs that at the daughter's death three-fourths of the principal are to go to her descendants and one-fourth to those whom she directs in her own will.

Mrs. Hartel, widow of Walter W. Hartel, died August 1 at her summer home in Cape May. She was a daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Reed and a member of the Society of Colonial Dames and of the Art Alliance.

Narberth Continues Its Winning March

Upper Darby Bows to Davismen 9-6; Game Marked by Heavy Hitting

GILFILLAN POLES HOMER

By JOHN MULLIGAN

There may be some truth in the rumor going the rounds to the effect that Narberth doesn't wish to cop the second-half championship of the Main Line League. To do so would eliminate the annual play-off series and consequently lose money for the clubs playing in the little World Series. If that is true, and Gene Davis' tossers are intending to fade out of the fight, then how can one account for their bumping off of teams right and left?

Last Saturday the Davismen took Upper Darby in stride and won rather handily by a 9-6 score, although a late rally by Eddie Hare's youthful combination made things interesting for a time. This was done exactly one week after the Davismen had handed Bryn Mawr a stunning 3-2 defeat, just when it was figured that Danny Hemcher's club was on the right road to the flag. Bryn Mawr would be the club for the Borough to play because that town has a large following and would put plenty good old U. S. quarters in the collector's hat.

Yet Narberth helped to boost Brookline into first place by winning from the Choctaws and then waded through the Upidah aggregation the following week, which makes John Fan wonder if he knows what it's about after all.

The Upper Darby-Narberth game was not one to give the fans many heart throbs unless wholesale extra-base hitting gave some of them palpitations. Narberth collected nine runs in seven innings to the victors' one, and it looked like a complete whitewashing until a belated rally by the latter made the count a bit more interesting.

Again it was the veteran George Babb who was tossing them across for the homesters and again he turned in a good performance. Maybe the old man is on his way to a comeback. The day was plenty hot and Georgie wasn't at all bashful in letting Manager Gene know that he didn't like the humidity. As a result, he worked seven innings, giving way to Nick Lyons, who finished nicely.

Babb was nicked for 10 hits and fanned seven batters. Three passes were charged to his ledger and he contributed two hits as his share of the 12 banged off Pitchers Hen Dornheim and Maguire, who relieved him

World Traveler Addresses Rotary

Life in Malayan Jungles Topic of Talk Tuesday by James C. Muir

HUGE SNAKE CAPTURED

"...the heathen Chinese is peculiar," a fact which would be gathered from a talk Tuesday by James C. Muir, addressing the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Mr. Muir spoke on the topic, "Strange Neighbors."

The speaker, who has lived or traveled in nearly every part of the globe, chose the jungles of Malaya as the scene of his talk Tuesday. As a young man he had been in charge of an engineering project in the Federated Malay States, involving the employment of coolie, Sikh and other native labor.

"People are apt to speak of the African jungles," Mr. Muir said, "but in truth there are no real jungles in the dark continent. South America has great jungles, but the worst in the world are found in the Federated Malay States and the Straits Settlements. It is a constant battle against the dense vegetation.

"For example, of the 56 known varieties of poisonous snakes, 41 are found in Malaya." Mr. Muir then went on to describe graphically the capture of a gigantic python by a group of coolie workmen.

Miss Ellen Brinton, Peace Worker, Finds Turkey Most Interesting Country in Europe

That Turkey is in many respects the most progressive and interesting country in Europe, that Russia is a seething scene of incessant activity, and that the Hitlerite movement in Germany acts as a safety valve to the country are a few of the impressions gained by Miss Ellen Starr Brinton, of 127 Merion avenue, Narberth, who returned recently from a three months' trip to Europe.

As one of a party of workers of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, of which she is a field secretary in the Philadelphia headquarters, Miss Brinton had the opportunity of meeting people prominent in political and industrial life in the various countries visited.

The tour started at Geneva, Switzerland, where the party had the opportunity of meeting delegates to the Disarmament Conference and attending some of its public sessions. Several days were then spent at Grenoble, France, at the Peace Conference of the Women's International League.

At Rome their visit coincided with the second time the old Roman buildings were illuminated and opened to the public—by invitation only. It was a very formal affair, Miss Brinton said, and the indirect lighting used, gave the effect of moonlight, which was very beautiful.

As a representative of a world organization working for peace, Miss Brinton is not entirely in sympathy with the militaristic spirit which is being fostered in Italy, but she feels that much good has been accomplished in Mussolini's regime in disciplining the people and wiping out the cut-throat bands which formerly roved the country.

After a few days in Athens the party proceeded to Istanbul, the capital of Turkey (formerly Constantinople). How the phrase "Terrible Turk" ever got its currency Miss Brinton is at a loss to understand, as the Turkey she saw and its people left a most favorable impression with her.

"There are many modern buildings, considerable English is spoken, the people are quiet and industrious, chiefly agriculturists, and a progressive spirit is evident," she said. "It was all such a surprise," she continued, "as we had not anticipated such an interesting country. One of the highlights there was a most satisfactory interview with the head of the government."

In Russia, where the party visited Kharkov, the capital of the Ukraine, Moscow and Leningrad, fewer surprises were encountered, as they knew pretty well what to expect from reading up on the country.

The incessant noise, and the active

Wentz-Olney Bows to Borough Nine

Narberth Youngsters Lose to Second Ward Club on Monday

GREAT CATCH MADE

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth again shared honors for mid-week games by dropping a drab 8-3 decision to Second Ward, of Philadelphia, on Monday night, and taking over the strong Wentz-Olney club of the same city, Wednesday. The score for this one was 2-1, and it went only six innings for the usual reason—rain.

In the first struggle Gene Davis received an opportunity to try out his rookies, due to the fact that a number of the regulars were on vacation and the youngsters did themselves proud in spite of the defeat.

The Boroughites took to their labors with Dick Gallagher, Nationals' receiver, wearing the pad and mask, and Johnny Brennan, of the same aggregation, stationed at the hot spot. Seaver Rose, another Nats' player, was instructed to roam the left garden.

The less said of this one the better, because the visitors had no trouble hitting Howard Graham, and showed their contempt for Jerry Casey, who relieved him in the sixth session. Incidentally, Casey is another Narberth youth trying to move up to faster

Boro to Establish Control Over Traffic

Ordinance Introduced at Council Giving Authority to Burgess and Committee

PROVIDE TRAFFIC COURT

An ordinance regulating the direction and speed of traffic, the parking of vehicles and establishing a traffic court was introduced and passed on first reading at the August meeting of the Narberth Borough Council on Monday night.

The ordinance was presented by Edward S. Haws, chairman of the Public Safety Committee.

The following provisions are incorporated in the ordinance: "That the Burgess and Public Safety Committee of Council are hereby authorized and empowered to regulate the direction and speed of traffic and parking of vehicles on the streets of the Borough, subject to the approval of Council;

"That the said regulations shall or may specify the direction and speed of traffic on certain streets or in certain areas.

"That the said regulations shall or may specify the manner, angle and direction for the parking of vehicles on certain streets and the periods of time during which the same shall be effective;

"That police officers in uniform or upon displaying of badge shall have authority to warn or arrest on view any operator of any vehicle violating any of the regulations authorized by this ordinance or to notify said operator in writing of the time and place for a hearing, or to make such information before the Burgess or a Justice of the Peace against any such operator;

"That all persons violating the regulations made under the authority of this ordinance shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars and costs or five days' imprisonment in jail, or both, said fine to be recoverable in the manner prescribed by law; "That the Burgess and Justices of the Peace of the Borough of Narberth may establish a special 'Traffic Court' for the hearing of cases of violations of the regulations authorized by this act and the violation of any ordinance of Council or Act of the Assembly pertaining to the use of streets and highways by vehicles."

Before going into effect the ordinance must be passed on second and third readings, which may be done at the September meeting of Council. Mr. Haws' committee reported that 16 warning tags had been sent out for traffic violations from July 7 to 27, inclusive.

But three building permits were issued during July, according to the report of the Building Committee, presented by William H. Fretz, its chairman.

Permits were issued as follows: Charles T. Clegg, 237 Essex avenue, alterations, $50; Louis Sammartino, 343 Dudley avenue, roof, $350; H. Ricklin, Haverford and Essex avenues, alterations, $900.

Eleven inspections were made by the Building Inspector, George B. Suplee, during the month, two operations being completed.

The report of the Highway and Sewer Committee was submitted by its chairman, Robert F. Ward, as follows:

"The only work, outside of regular routine taken care of by this Department during the past month, were jobs in connection with the paving of Haverford avenue from Essex to

Gilpin Beats Lavine for Eastern States Court Crown

Samuel B. Gilpin, of Merion, defeated Gabriel Lavine in the finals of the Eastern States Clay Court tennis championship at the Idle Hour Club last Sunday by the score of 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. He thereby gained permanent possession of the Charles E. Henderson Trophy, having won the tournament on two previous occasions.

Lavine and Norman Bramall, of the Cynwyd Club, won the doubles title by defeating Harold Lane, Cynwyd Club, and Brooke Edwards, Calcutta South Club, Calcutta, India, 6-2, 2-all default. Rain halted the match and Edwards could not remain over to finish it the next day.

MISS ELLEN S. BRINTON

Commutation Ticket Reduction by Pennsy

Will be Available to Patrons of Company Next Monday, August 15

Four new forms of commutation tickets, greatly extending the privilege of purchasing transportation at wholesale, will be available to patrons of the Pennsylvania Railroad, beginning next Monday (August 15), on all of its lines serving the Philadelphia suburban territory. At the same time new low rate round trip fares will be established between intermediate stations in the same area.

In the past, it has been the general practice of all railroads to sell commutation tickets principally between large cities and the respective suburban communities surrounding them. The new ticket will establish commutation fares between principal intermediate points located on each division within the suburban area, as well as between suburban stations and the city of Philadelphia. Another important feature is that commuters who cannot conveniently make the cash outlay for a regular monthly ticket, or who do not have occasion to use such tickets fully, will be enabled to purchase a smaller number of rides.

One of the innovations will be a weekly 12-ride commutation ticket, to be sold at approximately one-fourth the cost of the present 60-trip monthly ticket. It will be good for the calendar week, commencing on Monday, and may be purchased any Saturday, Sunday or Monday for the ensuing week.

Another departure will be a monthly ticket good for twenty trips within a period of thirty days from date of sale. This ticket will be available at a slightly higher rate per trip than the present 50-trip ticket now sold between Philadelphia and suburban points. It may be purchased at any time.

The 50-trip six months' ticket now on sale between Philadelphia and the principal suburban stations will also be placed on sale between intermediate points on each division within the suburban area.

The new reduced round-trip ticket will be sold for one-third less than double the regular one-way fares. It will be available every day in the week to or from Philadelphia or between any two stations on a suburban line. It will have a return limit of two days in addition to the day of the sale.

The territory embraced in the arrangement extends as far west as Coatesville on the Main Line; the Philadelphia suburban territory on the New York Division; and to Wilmington and Newark, Del., on the Southern Division. All stations on the Chestnut Hill Branch are included, as well as those on the lines to Oxford, Pa., and West Chester and those up the Schuylkill Valley as far as Pottstown. In New Jersey the zones affected will include Bordentown, Juliustown, Kinkora, Browns Mills, Egg Harbor, Millville, Richmond, Bridgeton, Salem and Penns Grove.

State Forestry Departments last year distributed more than 100,000,000 trees for planting in various parts of the country.

Shreds & Patches

On Schedule

Vagrancy as an occupation is not so aimless as is commonly supposed. Nature's time table is as punctual as that of any railroad, and he who would repeat his glimpses of living beauty must time his visits with careful exactness. The Vagrant has spent many hurried days this summer in order to reach the right spots at exactly the right time. There is, for example, that stand of yellow lady-slippers which can be viewed annually, but not picked, during the week of Decoration Day. Many miles away in early July there is a roadside swamp which displays the most amazing spread of forget-me-nots. These can best be viewed where a slanting afternoon sun strikes obliquely on their living blueness. Such color in such profusion! Yet of the thousands of automobilists who hourly pass that spot not one seems to be aware that there in plain view is such a spread as seldom be seen. The Vagrant, standing by that roadside, obviously puzzles them, for they know not whether he is hitch-hiker or highwayman.

Enchanted Forest

If there are perchance among The Vagrant's readers any who have read and reread, as he has done, "The Forest Lovers" by Maurice Hewlett, they will have retained the memory of the somber, the mighty and almost boundless forest which dominates that story and in which the abodes of men, even the largest, are almost completely submerged. Such a person having such a fictional memory can enjoy the experience of beholding it all in real life by going to the rocky summit in the Lynn Woods, easily reached by automobile from the city of Lynn, Massachusetts. It is amazing that such a low hill in the midst of one of the most thickly inhabited sections of the country could give such an impression of almost unbroken forest. Away it stretches to the north, mile on mile of green tree tops, on to the horizon where arises the gilded dome of the State House in Boston, the Custom House tower and other lofty buildings, all glinting in the sun, and apparently surrounded and almost overgrown by the forest. The imagination and brush of Maxfield Parrish have not portrayed a more magical city, a more enchanted one, than modern Boston seems from the Lynn woods on any clear day with the sun half-way down in the west.

Bathing Suits

Some talk this spring had reached The Vagrant regarding the extreme abbreviations in bathing suits, especially the female kind, which were about to be worn on public beaches, the country over. He heard of one elderly man who returned from Atlantic City in early June, shocked and amazed at what his far-sighted eyes had beheld there. That man thought something ought and surely would be done about it. The Vagrant privately hoped that nothing would be, at least, until he had had an opportunity to make a personal examination of the subjects complained of. Since then The Vagrant has visited many beaches and must confess that, blaze old rip that he is, he saw nothing that aroused his sensibilities and little that excited his interest. A bathing beach is just as shocking and also just as refined as it was in those days when all bathers were more completely clad. Certainly there is much more actual swimming now by both men and women than was the case then, and so far as swimming is concerned, the fewer clothes there are the better, in The Vagrant's opinion. Coarse, vulgar and shocking people are not changed by attire, whether scanty or complete, and the obscenities of any bathing place are usually confined, now as formerly, to the secret thoughts and low conversation of the spectators. The modern bathing costume enabled The Vagrant to behold a sight of rare beauty and charm—a young mother dancing at the water's edge with a small and nearly naked child which, with untaught grace, endeavored to imitate the charming poise and leaping bounds of the mother. Both were totally lacking in self consciousness. It was beautiful play for its own sake. The Vagrant would have missed it entirely had not La Vagante called it to his attention.

English Eat Japanese

Edward S. Haws, of Narberth, reports that the English sparrows are eating the Japanese beetles and no doubt about it. Having read The Vagrant's conjectures on that point and observing that the sparrows appeared to be peculiarly frequenting his altheas Mr. Haws got out his field glasses so as to be sure of his observations. He saw that the sparrows were grabbing the beetles from the blossoms and carrying them to the ground, where they pulled them to pieces and devoured the palatable portions at will. In order to make assurance doubly sure he scared one sparrow away from its prey which he picked up and proved by close scrutiny to be a Japanese beetle. So there is a score hung up in favor of the English sparrows, whose dietary habits, prior to the advent of the automobile, rendered them of such little value that they were classed as nuisances, because of their many failings. It is generally believed that the starlings are also eating the beetles or their grubs, but, so far as The Vagrant is aware, no one has yet established that fact as clearly as Mr. Haws has done in the case of the sparrows. In fact, many people cannot tell the difference between a starling and a grackle.

Catholic Comment

Naturally, when The Vagrant was writing his recent paragraphs on raffles and lotteries, he thought how common such practices had been in Catholic Church bazaars ever since he could remember, and also, naturally, he refrained from going into that aspect of the discussion, for the weather was hot, and it is not his desire to raise controversial subjects. It was a pleasure, therefore, to receive a letter from Karl H. Rogers, of the Catholic Information Society, commending The Vagrant's commonsense attitude on gambling, and saying that it somewhat confirmed what he had previously suspected, that is, that one does not have to be a Catholic in order to have common sense. The Vagrant reads regularly with interest, and only infrequent disagreement, the little pamphlets which Mr. Rogers' Society sends out, and then he mails them to a Catholic relative-in-law who says that she finds the information helpful in her life and contacts. As an interested and rather detached observer of religious practices here in America, The Vagrant had often wondered why the Catholic Church made so little effort to make itself better known among those Protestants who are local to its parishes. It was never his thought or desire that the Catholics should start proselyting, but he did think that they possessed valuable and significant information regarding themselves, which, if properly made known, would advance the cause of community life and understanding. The Catholic Information Society of Narberth is, so far as The Vagrant knows, the only attempt that has been made by any Catholic organization to accomplish that very thing which he had previously visualized, and for that reason he has always looked with favor on their monthly pamphlets and the information which they contain.

Law or Morals

So far as the Church's attitude on raffles and lotteries is concerned, it seemed to The Vagrant for many years that it was wrong for any Christian body, regardless of its own beliefs, or the merits of the object in mind, to sanction a violation of the law of the state. He could always agree with them that such a law was more or less foolish, but he thought that it should be respected. He would probably state that to be his opinion still, although he must admit that the Volstead act has considerably undermined his abstract respect for the law. As a general thing, in the opinion of The Vagrant, the Catholic Church shows a better understanding of human nature and always makes more sensible concessions to it, where vital moral principles are not concerned, than do those who throughout American history have proceeded on the assumption that human conduct could be controlled by legislative enactment. And, in conclusion, may The Vagrant add, that Mr. Rogers said that he was "of necessity" a reader of this column because he was a regular reader of "Our Town." The Vagrant's search for one, single voluntary reader, is, therefore, not at an end.

THE VAGRANT.

The Literary Inquest

Conducted by Richard Powell

If we believe critics of America and admit that this nation glorifies speed, then we must claim that Thornton Wilder and Willa Cather are popular mainly because they provide a meditative oasis in the jangle of our existence. The new Willa Cather book, "Obscure Destinies" (Knopf, $2. Pub. August 1.), follows this tradition. Underneath the outer calm of the story is the suggestion of portentous, slow-moving forces.

Three short novelettes of the Western farm country compose the book, "Neighbour Rosicky" plods without complaint toward death, while his quiet philosophy strikes reflections in the lives of those about him. In "Old Mrs. Harris" is presented the contrast between the twilight existence of an aged woman and the thoughtless vitality of her grandchildren. Willa Cather delves into childhood memories for the picture of "Two Friends." This is the least successful story in the book. It is a mere photograph; for once no undercurrent flows beneath the Cather technique. The confirmed follower of Willa Cather will note that these stories do not contain the strong religious motif of "Death Comes For the Archbishop" and "Shadows on the Rock." It is almost as if certain doubts had assailed the author. In "Neighbour Rosicky," at least, Miss Cather plunges into pure pantheism.

While "Obscure Destinies" goes deeper into the springs of life than "Shadows on the Rock," its sale will doubtless be far less than the latter, for the novelette form does not rival the popularity of the novel. Still, this book is Willa Cather at her best; as matured as fruit ripening on a quiet sun wall, and preaching an acceptance rather than a defiance of life.

Now if you have revived flagging energies at the cool well of "Obscure Destinies," you might do worse than to plunge into battle with a detective novel—"The Green Knife," by Anthony Wynne (Lippincott, $2. Pub. July 28). Make no mistake; you will need an active mind to enjoy "The Green Knife," which does not offer thrills to the sluggish reader. Anthony Wynne presents little more than a cold, mathematical problem.

Sir Dyer Chalfont—one of those men whom everyone hated—is found murdered in his locked room. The author first convinces his readers that no one could have escaped from the room. Then, in an extremely irritating fashion, he kills off three more characters just to show how easily it can be done. Doctor Hailey builds up air-tight cases against a number of different people and had left this reviewer gasping miles in the rear by the time he settled on the guilty party. Too much dependence on coincidence detracts from the effect of the simple, logical solution. Recommended for people who like anagrams, Chinese puzzles, and who do not lose their tempers easily.

Hearsay Evidence

The accusing finger has been pointed at that holy of holies, the Academie Francaise, which has controlled the literary destinies of France since the time of Louis the Fourteenth. Many errors have been found in the Academy's most important work—its recent revision of the French Dictionary. Rumor hath it that the laurel-wreathed Academicians delegated this work to a "ghost," after the best American tradition.

For what it is worth, we pass on the information that Louis Bromfield's "A Modern Hero," has been banned in the Irish Free State. Not having read the book, we have no idea why.

A vote of one raised eyebrow for the intellectual Oxford University Press, which is bringing out a book of crossword puzzles.

Two leading German writers have applied for Swiss citizenship. Erich Maria Remarque found the patriotic revulsion in his country to "All Quiet on the Western Front" worse than the riot scenes he describes in "The Way Back." Emil Ludwig, the biographer, who was born Emil Cohn, has always had to contend with German religious prejudice, and decided that it was better to be an expatriate lion than a patriate monkey. Since the days of Calvin and Voltaire, Switzerland has been a popular refuge for harassed writers.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Smoothly interesting is "Hotel Continental," in which Peggy Shannon, J. Farrell MacDonald and Rockliffe Fellows appear at Narberth's Theatre this week-end; an interesting adventure. Saturday's matinee lists an exciting story, "Racing Youth," Slim Summerville and the first chapter of "Last of the Mohicans" for extra features. The Mohican picture is a talkie of interest, based on James Fenimore Cooper's novel. Also on the week-end program is a Charlie Chase comedy.

That happy married life and novel-writing are difficult under the same roof is a theme of "Westward Passage," in which Ann Harding stars at Narberth next Monday and Tuesday. Zasu Pitts, Laurence Oliver and Irving Pichel also have pleasing roles. But love will have its way, and all ends happily. A clean, sweet love romance, built around a sturdy, understanding story, is "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," movie version of Kate Douglas Wiggin's book, coming to Narberth Wednesday and Thursday. The pleasing cast includes Marian Nixon, Ralph Bellamy, Mac Marsh and Louise Closer Hale.

"This Is the Night" is at Egyptian Theatre

"This is the Night," at the Egyptian Theatre this Friday and Saturday, is a light, sparkling and sophisticated comedy featuring Roland Young, Charles Ruggles, Lily Damita and Thelma Todd; directed by Frank Tuttle in the smartest modern manner; recommended for all adults as one of the most amusing and pleasing films yet produced.

Next Monday and Tuesday the Egyptian will offer a film recommended as "excellent" by the Civic Club of Philadelphia committee on motion pictures, and other groups. It is "Symphony of Six Million," a Fanny Hurst story, in which Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne enact the story of a young surgeon in a big city.

"The type of role in which she excels Ruth Chatterton and Helen Hayes" is accorded Wynne Gibson, new screen favorite, in "Strange Case of Clara Dean." The cinema, which has strong human appeal, includes in its cast Pat O'Brien and Frances Dee; due at Cynwyd next Wednesday and Thursday.

"Sinners in the Sun" will be at the Egyptian next week-end; stars are Carole Lombard and Chester Morris.

Miss Anne Compton to Wed
Mr. Frank Hutter Sept. 3

The marriage of Miss Anne Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Compton, of Woodbine avenue, Narberth, and Mr. Frank Shields Hutter, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutter, of San Francisco, California, will take place on Saturday afternoon, September 3, at 4 o'clock, in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Narberth. The Rev. Cletus Senft will perform the ceremony.

Miss Helyn Brookhart, of Baltimore, Mr., will be the maid of honor, while Miss Honora Snyder will be the bridesmaid.

Mr. Joseph P. Bachman, of Bala, will act as best man, and Mr. Arthur G. Compton, Jr., a brother of the bride, will be the usher.

A supper for the bridal party will follow the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Requirements in Children's Travel Club Reduced

There are more than 50 children in Narberth and vicinity who are behind in their summer travels through no fault of their own. They are enrolled members of the Travel Club, which is organized each summer vacation by the Library to stimulate vacation reading by the children. The children indicate their "travels," as they proceed from book to book, on maps which are provided at the Library for that purpose.

It was the poliomyelitis quarantine of three weeks, preventing all children under 18 from going to the Library at all, that interrupted the "travels" this summer, just when an unusually large and enthusiastic number of voyagers had got under way. Many maps, still carefully laid away at the Library by Miss Church, bear stars which indicate the countries that the children had visited by means of the selected reading lists.

In order to make allowance for the time that was lost and still complete the course before the schools open next month it has been decided at the Library to reduce the number of books required to complete each course. In the course for the upper grades the list has been reduced by four books. The second grade list, which was a shorter one originally, has been reduced by three. The Travel Club ceases to travel when the schools open, but there is ample time, in the remaining weeks, for the children to complete the abbreviated course, if they will resume their reading promptly.

Parents can be reassured that all danger of infection from the books has been removed because those which were in circulation at the time when the poliomyelitis occurred have been fumigated and treated in accordance with the requirements of the Board of Health.

Chekov, Shaw, Milne and Others on Hedgerow Bill

A variety of plays from the pens of foreign authors internationally known and of two young Americans make up the program offered by the Hedgerow Theatre in Rose Valley next week. Chekov's Russian mood drama, "The Sea Gull," is the opening bill of the week on Monday night. On Tuesday the Shaw comedy, "You Never Can Tell," will be given. Wednesday night's presentation is one of the constantly entertaining comedies of A. A. Milne, "Mr. Pim Passes By," with Herbert Walton in the role of the inoffensive, disparate Mr. Pim, and Dorothy Yockel as the harassed Olivia. A performance of the newest play in the repertory, "Spring Song," by Bella Spewack, comes on Thursday night. Laura Rosenthal acts the part of the Jewish mother; Mildred Lewis and Miriam Phillips, the two daughters; Jesse Oser, the finance of one of the sisters; Edward Ginsburg, the devoted family friend next door. Albert Bein's "The Heavenly Express" is scheduled for Friday night, with a large cast, which includes Catherine Rieser in the role of "Granny Graham," whose cooking and kindness are known throughout the hobo realm, and Van Heflin, in the part of "The Overland Kid." An Irish comedy, "The Whiteheaded Boy," by Lennox Robinson, rounds out the week of Saturday night. Another new play is being prepared by the Hedgerow Company for a probable opening the first week in September.

Tonight's show at Hedgerow is Lynn Riggs' newest play, "The Cherokee Night," and tomorrow's Albert Bein's "Heavenly Express."

P. O. S. of A. Convention

Members of the Patriotic Order Sons of America of Delaware District No. 1, are making arrangements to attend the sixty-seventh annual state sessions of the order, which will be held in the ballroom of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, during the week of August 22. A general committee composed of members of Philadelphia, Delaware, Bucks, Chester and Montgomery Counties has arranged an entertaining program for their guests, delegates and state officers.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Two Wayne Residents Saved From Drowning in Chesapeake Bay

When a gaping hole was torn in the bottom of their 40-foot cabin cruiser, "Gee-Cee," Mr. and Mrs. Gorcham Clifton, of Wayne; Tracey Johnson, the pilot, and Charles Hanson, a sailor, narrowly escaped drowning in 35 feet of water in the Chesapeake Bay, near Rock Hall, Md., Sunday.

The Cliftons had been out sailing only a short time when the boat struck a submerged rock. Water soon began to fill the hold of the craft and it was with difficulty it was beached before it sank.

Mrs. Clifton, who was unable to swim, clung to the rear of the boat until her husband and the two sailors were able to man a speedboat which was being towed by the yacht.

Commodore J. Howard Van Seiver, of the Tristate Yacht Club, saw the Cliftons' distress and started at high speed to them in his flagship.

Black Sox Win

The Black Sox defeated the Wildcats for the first time this season on Wednesday morning. Norman Buckles, star third baseman of the Black Sox, got a triple in the last inning to win the game. The score was tie until the eighth inning.

Narberth Continues Its Winning March

in the fifth inning, after the Davis forces had driven home four runs. Dornheim, a right-hander, got away to a bad start in the very first inning when Harry Francis was safe on a fielder's choice, and after stealing second and third, dented the plate when Walt MacGregor became trapped between first and second later. Bob Gillfillan knocked in run No. 2 with a ringing double.

Harry Peiper, a former Narberth recruit, accounted for the first Upper Darby run in its first session when he singled and scored on a flyout to left field off Catcher Bohinick's bat.

But Gillfillan gave Narberth a comfortable lead in the third by sledging a home run to center field with MacGregor on, and the locals never were in serious danger after that.

The Harems tabbed a brace of runs in the sixth and two more in the next on a home run by Jimmy Gallagher after Bohinick had walked. In Narberth's half of the same frame Joel Rubincam had slapped a circuit smash with the lanes empty. That's the sort of a game it was. Biff, bang, hock 'em and rock 'em, with the pitchers receiving the headaches.

Gillfillan, Carroll and Rubincam shared batting honors for Narberth with two hits each, all having doubles in their hit columns, while Lentz was the batting star of the day with five safeties, one of which was a two-bagger.

Peiper starred on defense for the invading aggregation with four assists. One of the number was a classy stop of King's grounder in the second. George Gallagher also sparkled with a brilliant catch of a fly back of the infield off Charley Carroll's bat in the third.

Miss Ellen Brinton Finds Turkey Interesting Country

ity and congestion in the streets of the cities is one of the most striking aspects to the visitor, according to Miss Brinton. Despite the advertising campaign of the Soviet in this country, Russia is not "tourist conscious," she believes, and special provision has to be made for visitors. One cannot set out to wander around the country, she said, due to the difficulty of language, money, lack of provision for food and accommodation. "There are no privately owned automobiles and no taxis, and it is difficult to ride the trolleys because they are so congested and one is not sure where they go due to the language," she explained. "Most of our traveling was done in Lincolns, Packards and Fiats—very luxuriously—with Government guides and chauffeurs. Special hotels are provided for tourists and waiters, cooks and servants trained to look after them."

As far as going about where they wished in the cities, there was no restriction placed upon them, Miss Brinton said.

As one of the souvenirs she brought from Russia Miss Brinton exhibited a ruble, a piece of paper money about half the size of an American dollar. The curious thing about it was the fact that it contained printing in five languages, Russian, Ukrainian, Georgian, Turkish and Armenian.

Going from Russia into Finland one was aware immediately of the great difference. Finland she compared in general aspect to England. Despite the repeal of prohibition there it appears to be a dry country, she said, and is in marked contrast to England, which boasts of its wetness.

The party's visit to Berlin just preceded one of the great demonstrations on the eve of an election and tempted them to miss their boat in order to witness it. The Hitlerite movement fills a need in Germany, Miss Brinton believes, as it provides something for the young people to do. It is well managed, she said, and is taken seriously by very few people.

company, and is well known as a Nat hurler.

Seaver Rose contributed the fielding thrill of the night by making a difficult catch under the tree in left of a high fly from Troilo's bat in the third, and Gallagher added a double to the futile cause.

Mentioning the weather in connection with Wednesday games may seem a bit hackneyed by now, but again it was old Jupe Pluvius who gummied the works, so to speak, in the Wentz-Olney contest.

The Philly tallied its lone run in the third off Pitcher Johnny Jackson, when Vellit doubled, and, after reaching third on a passed ball, checked in at home on Mahoney's bingle.

The homesters were not to be denied, however, and clinched the game in their fourth frame with a brace of runs. Bob Gillfillan was safe on a fielder's choice at second base. Barney Slaughter, hero of the Bryn Mawr-Choctaws game, came up then and slammed a triple, admitting him, and dented the rubber soon after on Charley Carroll's hard double.

Joel Rubincam, stocky outfielder, electrified the crowd in the second with one of the best catches of a fly ball seen here in a long time. Valibus lifted a high one far to the left and foul by many feet and "The Rube" was off like a scared rabbit with those short legs pounding like pistons. He reached his destination just as the pellet fell and snared it for one of the greatest catches anybody could ever hope to witness. The crowd voiced its acclaim with a deafening roar of applause.

Slaughter, with his three-bagger, and Carroll, boasting a double, were the batting stars for Narberth, while Vellit and Allen had doubles for the Quaker City combine.

MacGregor and Carroll played their respective positions in classy form for the winners, while Fred Devinney, former minor leaguer, scintillated at the keystone for the invaders.

Score by innings:

Borough to Establish Control Over Traffic

Wynnewood by the Highway Department of the County. The storm sewer on the north side of that stretch, authorized at a previous meeting of Council, was installed by your Highway Department during July at a cost of $197 for labor and $217 for materials. Certain sidewalk extensions and repairs at each end of the same paving operation, and made necessary by it, as well as the raising of manholes in that section, were taken care of at a total cost of $38.12 for labor.

"In addition, the clearing of inlets in various parts of the Borough during the month of July cost $23.86. The total labor expenditures during July, including those previously mentioned, were $584.04. The ash and rubbish collections totalled 518 cubic yards and cost $224.12 for labor.

"The work of the County on Haverford avenue has been progressing slowly, but it is the expectation that the final cost of Specification 'E' will be laid this week and that the entire job will be completed by the middle of this month. The County has been doing an unusually thorough and capable job, with the result that they are producing one of the best ballasted and best laid streets in the entire Borough."

WILLIAM H. GILLIS

Ill for over a year, William H. Gillis, 29 Union avenue, Bala, died 2 P. M. Sunday at Ocean City, Maryland. Funeral services were held 4 P. M. Tuesday at Salisbury, Maryland, his home town, where interment was made. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary V. Gillis; a daughter, Mrs. J. M. Birmingham; and a son, Arthur H. Gillis.

Mr. Gillis, who was 67, was district manager for the Philadelphia Electric Company in Cynwyd. He had been an employee of the company for over forty years, and was a member of its Quarter Century Club. In his Cynwyd office he had endeared himself to hundreds of residents of the section. In commenting on his death, Edward W. Ehmann, Main Line division manager, praised his long record of "loyalty to his company and service to his customers."

Mr. Gillis had been a resident of Bala for over forty years, and at 29 Union avenue for half that time. He was a member of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club.

Patents Granted to Three Main Line Residents

Patents have been granted to three Main Line men according to an announcement from the United States Patent Office.

Walter C. Wagner, of Ardmore, was credited by the Federal Government with being the joint inventor with Frederick Strattnr, of Philadelphia, of a constant speed testing device for watt-hour meters. A joint patent has been issued to the two.

Seven new ideas are incorporated in the device. More than three years have elapsed since Wagner and Strattnr applied for their patent, it is disclosed by records on file in Washington.

The invention has not yet been assigned for manufacture. Wilfred Lewis, of Haverford, designed a cushion for jar molding machines and has assigned his interests to the Tabor Manufacturing Company, of Philadelphia.

Morris Kind, Bryn Mawr, perfected an apparatus for handling cement and similar material. It is a combination of a float, a track and a car, so made as to be able to take material from a bin and discharge it from the float. He has assigned his rights to a Philadelphia concern, Hercules Cement Corporation.

Rotarians Hear Talk by World Traveler

"They formed a big ring, of which I was a part," he said, "and closed in on the great snake with much shouting. The python circled the inside of the ring, which became smaller and smaller. I must admit I breathed easier every time it passed me. "Finally one of the coolies threw a big stick of bamboo at the snake, which coiled about it. Before it could uncoil the natives had it trussed up securely, and carried it on their shoulders to the nearest city, where it was sold for $15."

Mr. Muir, in touching on the ethics of the Chinese merchant, showed the workings of Confucianism as a system of ethics. The Chinese merchant, he said, is shrewd, but honest. "A man should go through life as a courteous gentleman," is the teaching on which the Chinese base their age-old business policy.
